

Tatyana Beck Biography

Tatyana Beck brings a wealth of expertise in program management, strategic leadership, and community health to school and educational initiatives. A passionate advocate for education, health access, and public awareness, Tatyana is dedicated to empowering individuals to let their light shine and building strong, inclusive community partnerships.

Holding a Master's of Public Health in Global Health and a Bachelor of Science in Public Health from St. Catherine University, Tatyana has demonstrated a lifelong commitment to mentorship, community advancement/access, and student success. Her background spans extensive experience leading high-impact healthcare programs, alongside hands-on roles supporting student and scholar development, accessibility, and educational outreach.

Known for her high energy, collaborative approach, and critical thinking, Tatyana brings a thoughtful, detail-oriented perspective to leadership, ensuring every student and family in the community has the resources and support they need to thrive.